Expectations

"Check your actual reality first, then align your expectations." - Elaine Mofokeng

Ever had your spirit broken because what you imagined never quite turned out as you hoped?
Ever been in a crappy situation because you put a bet on trust and hope in someone?

Well, that is part of being human
Always going for what exists in our minds even though it is a great contradiction of our ACTUAL reality

Hope is awesome, it is what sometimes fuels our very existence
Expectations are as equally great, they reflect our standards
Yet, if we can't reconcile where we actually are, Who we are with, and who is the ONE that controls if we take our next breath or not,
Then our expectations of everything remains fickle..

Imperfect situations exist because there are no perfect people
Most people are already doing their best, stop the pressure
Accept your humanity and it's flaws for the sake of your sanity

Please reflect on your expectations of others and judge the fairness of it all
No one owes you ANYTHING
Christ paid the price

Be and Stay Blessed Always!
