Funny Month

"It is a funny month" – Nalini Ballaram

My Colleague, Nalini, called it a funny month. This coming from her was profound since she is one of the most chilled and levelheaded people I know.

November is when we all feel the tiredness of the year, yet still required to soldier on since the bills won't pay themselves. I am grateful to have lived this far with my sanity still hanging on.

Though the month be "funny" I choose to be funny-er.
I choose to push until the end.
I choose to endure with peace and joy.
I choose to wake up each day and embrace the gift of life and love.
I choose to walk in the light bestowed upon me by my Creator.

May you choose wisely in this "funny" month and beyond. The year is almost over...

Be and Stay Blessed Always!
