It Is A Wrap!

"I sowed in faith, watered with praise and shall reap with joy!" – Elaine Mofokeng

This year has been more than just the testing of my faith, it was rough seas! I mean Lucifer played REAL dirty this year.

I think Lucy literally went for most of God's children by touching whatever he could access. If this was you and you are reading this now, then I thank God he could not touch your soul. I have endured to a point of thinking my sanity would literally wave goodbye. I was either in battle, ducking or just plain hiding from his schemes, plots and nonsense.

What truly matters for me now is that through it all, I am here to reflect on it. The main fact is that through it all, God has and still is good. I have so many questions about the experiences I had, but my faith in Him remains because there is no one else who knows me like He does – He is after all my Creator.

The purpose of these monthly newsletters was an opportunity for me to capture my thoughts and observations in writing. As we wrap up 2022, I just want to say thank you for taking time to read my newsletters and hoping that you have shared with someone whom you believed needed to read them. I believe that we all did our best this year despite all the cards that were dealt to us. This life thing is not easy and yet we keep at it because we continue to trust in the One who declared "let there be breath" each day we woke up. I pray you always remember that and give Him praise for that. 2022, thank you. It is a wrap.

Be and Stay Blessed Always!
